The first fire consumed the Central Vermont tool house, a small structure on the west bank of the railroad, north of the town hall build-The fire started in the roof and probably was caused by sparks from a locomotive. It was discovered by a train crew, who sent word to the freight office. Several transfer men were sent to the fire with shovels, but were unable to exting uish the flames. Two freight cars which stood near, took fire, but they were drawn out of the way and the fire was put out with hand extinguishers. Some time afterward some person pulled in an alarm, but the building had fallen in so that there was no possibility of saving it. The telephone cable containing 15 pairs of wires connecting North. Tyler and Terrace streets with the exchange was melted off. The wires were repaired in the afternoon by two men from the head office in Springfield and two linemen from Bellows Falls. The second and third alarms were for fires in piles of railroad ties. The total loss from all three probably was not more than

Keep the Balance Up. It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get t'red ca-ly, the least improvement brings on sickness, weakness or debility. The system needs a tonic, and craves it, and should not be denied it and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsapariba. What this medicine has done in lacenary people health, it weeners up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hol's for appetite, strength, and endurance
